World TURTLE Day 2012

What would you do if you find a turtle or tortoise crossing the road, while driving? You might say, 'I would turn the car without disturbing or stop till it goes away.'

But if you can stop the car and put the turtle on the way to which it proceeds, you would be respecting it and helping it to exist.

May 23rd is observed as World Turtle Day by Tortoise Rescue Associations the world over. The aim of the day is to promote respect for turtles (and tortoises) globally, and to encourage humans to behave in a way that helps these special creatures survive.
